

TRAVEL & LIFESTYLE

20 Things to Do This Spring: Who to Watch, Where to Go, What to Eat, and More

by Patricia Garcia

Share 341 Tweet 180 G+ 529 Pin it 4

There is talk about snow landing in New York City this week, but what do we care? March 20 was officially the first day of spring, and after such a brutal winter, we can finally see the light at the end of the tunnel—which means we're moving ahead with spring trends and plans, regardless of the temperature. Here, from Vogue.com's culture desk, are 20 ways to see the season's best theater, art, music, television, film, books, design, and more.

SUBSCRIBE
GIVE A GIFT RENEW INTERNATIONAL

FREE CLUTCH
WITH A YEAR OF VOGUE

SUBSCRIBE »

The Big Egg Hunt

In what is sure to be captured extensively on Instagram next month, the Big Egg Hunt by Fabergé will hide over 200 enormous eggs—created by the likes of Bruce Weber, Zaha Hadid, Carolina Herrera, Jacques Torres, 88 Rue du Rhone, and more—all over New York City. For two-and-a-half weeks, people will be searching for these one-of-a-kind sculptures until Sotheby's auctions them off for charity on April 22.

April 1–April 17
thebigegghunt.org

Photo: Courtesy of HL Group

< 5 of 20 >

FOLLOW
VOGUE ON PINTEREST

PINTEREST.COM/
VOGUEMAGAZINE